Welcome to Sotheby's Institute of Art - London

In 1995 the University of Manchester recognised the excellence of the teaching at Sotheby's Institute of Art - London and established a partnership with the Institute to validate and award its postgraduate degrees. The University of Manchester is one of the largest and most prestigious universities in the UK and the Institute in London has a close working relationship with the University's School of Arts, Languages and Cultures.

At postgraduate level, the Institute now offers Master of Arts degrees in Art Business, Contemporary Art, Fine and Decorative Art and Design, and Luxury Business. A Study Abroad programme, aimed at undergraduate students at partner universities worldwide, is also validated by the University of Manchester. In addition, the London Institute offers a range of short Executive, professional, and bespoke courses throughout the year.

Sotheby's Institute of Art - London has continually developed since it was founded by Sotheby's auction house in 1969 and now offers a wide range of validated programmes.

INFORMATION ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK

The Study Abroad Student Handbook provides information about different aspects of Institute life and offers guidance in relation to your everyday life while a student here. The main section of the handbook relates to taught regulations, as set out by the University of Manchester. This handbook is designed to be a user-friendly guide and contains the essentials of what you are required to know. The handbook makes reference to a number of regulations and further policy and procedural documents that are not included here but can be found easily on Canvas (student portal) and on our website for further detail. Canvas also provides you with a wealth of information about the programme on which you are studying, including your programme timetable, announcements, administrative documents and the Library Catalogue and e-resources.

We very much value and welcome your feedback in relation to your study programme and the services offered at Sotheby's Institute of Art - London, so that we can ensure that we do our best to support you during your studies. Feedback can be formally provided during the programme by means of your student representatives and student surveys.

Please don't hesitate to let us know if you need further information or if you have any queries. We would be delighted to help.

Good luck with your studies!

REGISTRATION AND YOUR STUDIES AT SOTHEBY'S INSTITUTE OF ART - LONDON

At the time of registration, you will be given access to this Study Abroad Student Handbook, along with the registration form which you need to complete. Please take time to read and familiarise yourself with this handbook because in completing the registration forms you will be required to confirm that you have read and understood the contents.

Terms and conditions

You will not be able to start your studies at the Institute until we have received by an agreed deadline your fees in full, and you have submitted your registration form along with copies of all requested documentation.

Personal and medical problems

It is your responsibility as a student to inform the Institute in writing and to provide medical certification of any illness or medical condition that may in any way affect your work, prior to the commencement of your programme. This can be via the registration form that you will receive, or via any member of staff.

It is important that we are informed of any specific needs due to a disability or learning difficulty (e.g. if you are partially sighted or dyslexic), so that reasonable adjustments can be made wherever necessary for you to make the most of your programme. Please also ensure that you keep us informed of any illness or difficulties that arise during your studies – particularly if it has an impact on your work. If we are kept informed, then it will help us give you the best support that we can provide.

The Institute adheres to the principle that a general respect for privacy means that matters relating to the support of students must be treated as confidential. The Institute is committed to supporting students and their academic progress and personal development. Information given by students to staff involved in their support will be treated with the utmost sensitivity and discretion.

Confidential information provided by students will only be shared with other members of the Institute on a 'need to know' basis. Students will always be asked for their consent for information to be shared with other members of staff. If, however, a student does not provide consent, the Institute may be obliged to consider the impact that not sharing information will have on the safety and wellbeing of the student and others, both within and outside the Institute. Consequently, there may be occasions on which information is shared about students on a 'need to know' basis if there are serious concerns about the student's wellbeing and safety, or the wellbeing and safety of others.

The courses

Course outlines will be provided in the course syllabus, and class schedules are published on the online Canvas LMS, along with learning support documents and important announcements. Canvas LMS should be checked for updates on a daily basis. Sotheby's Institute reserves the right to amend the syllabus in consultation with the University of Manchester, as it considers necessary.

Travel Insurance while on trips

Students travelling on Sotheby's Institute of Art organised field trips have insurance coverage through the Institute, unless they are travelling to their own country, in which case they do not have medical coverage. Students attending field trips in their own country may wish to take out their own medical insurance. Students travelling to field trip destinations before or after the official trip should also ensure they have personal insurance coverage as Institute provided coverage is only valid for the duration of the field trip. Students are also strongly advised to obtain travel insurance when travelling independently of the Institute.

EXAMINATIONS AND ASSESSMENT

Modes of assessment include essays, oral presentations, group work, projects, written examinations, visual analysis tests etc. Details will be given to you at the beginning of the programme.

Credits

Each full-time Study Abroad program is composed of units, and each unit is accredited for either 10 or 20 University of Manchester undergraduate credits. Successful completion of each unit leads to the award of these University of Manchester undergraduate credits. This, together with students' overall marks for each unit, is documented in a transcript from the University of Manchester. Students will either receive a transcript from the University of Manchester or the earned credits and overall marks will be documented on their transcript issued by their home institution. Any questions regarding the transcript and documentation process should be referred to the home campus. A student who successfully completes a Study Abroad program also receives a certificate from the Institute.

The Summer 2025 Study Abroad program is accredited for 20 University of Manchester undergraduate credits.

Anonymous Assessment

Sotheby's Institute of Art - London has an anonymous marking system and as many assignments as possible are thus assessed anonymously, although this cannot apply to work such as oral presentations. Candidates' identities will also be concealed during Examination Boards that decide on the award of qualifications.

The purpose of anonymous assessment is to eliminate any bias that might exist on the part of examiners and to reassure students that assignments have been marked and considered in an impartial way. Students will be allocated ID numbers at the start of the programme and should always use these numbers when submitting written work, undertaking examinations and tests, etc. These numbers will not be known by the staff marking assignments.

Second Marking and Moderation

Marking of assignments across all programmes will be carried out by members of faculty of Sotheby's Institute of Art, or by a member of consultant faculty who has been approved for assessment marking by the University of Manchester.

Assignments across all programmes are assessed via a system which includes moderation.

Please note that 20% or 5 student papers, whichever is higher, are second-marked, that is to say, they are marked by two tutors to ensure that marking is consistent. A sample will also be read by the External Examiner, who ensures that we follow best practice in our assessment of student work.

Formative Assessment

Formative assessment is a kind of assessment which has a primarily developmental role, and helps students gain preliminary feedback on their work in order to help them with summative assessment, which counts towards their degree. Although the results of formative-only assessment will not contribute towards your unit marks, this kind of assessment is an extremely valuable means of identifying your strengths and weaknesses, in order to improve your overall academic performance. It is unsurprising that students who fail to submit formative assessments tend to perform less well in summative assignments because they have missed a valuable feedback opportunity.

For this reason, students are fully expected to complete and submit formative assessments as and when required.

Word Limits

All programmes have agreed assessment lengths for written assessments. The target word count or range for a written piece is indicative of the optimum length required to compose a successful piece of work at that level and is designed to correspond as closely as possible to the weighting that the assessment has within the course unit. The purpose of enforcing word limits is:

- a) to ensure parity and fairness by creating a level playing field;
- b) to help students produce well-focused and cogent written work;
- c) to instill the discipline essential for real-life writing tasks, where word limits are often rigid;
- d) to ensure that students acquire the ability to edit their writing effectively and cut away inessential material, skills invaluable both for academic work and the workplace.

With that in mind, students must observe the word limit specified for each assessment. The upper limit is an absolute maximum and must not be exceeded (there is no '10% rule').

- Material that exceeds the upper limit will not be read or considered in the marking
- Work that is significantly under length will be unlikely to meet the learning outcomes of the particular assignment, and so may have this reflected in the mark awarded.
- The word count for each piece of written work must be displayed clearly on the top right-hand side of the first page.

Word count is here defined as including quotations and the footnotes in the essay itself. It does not include image captions, the bibliography or any appendices. Appendices are for supporting, illustrative material only; they may not be used to elaborate or extend the argument.

Submitting your assignments to Canvas

If you have difficulty uploading your assignment to Canvas, please instead submit it immediately via email, to your Programme Team in order to avoid marks being deducted for late submission.

Return of Student Assessment

Sotheby's Institute of Art is committed to returning student assessment in a timely fashion. Normally this means that marks and comments will be released no later than 15 working days after submission. Longer pieces of coursework may require up to 20 days for marks and comments to be produced and you will be informed if this is the case at or before the point of submission. These days do not include weekends, public holidays, or days when the Institute is closed.

Occasionally, overriding factors, such as illness or events beyond our control, might preclude the return of assessment within these deadlines. Where this occurs, you will be informed of the reasons for this delay.

Well-structured as a whole presentation; alternative views presented so audience can follow clearly; conclusion shows some independence of view.	Orderly. Each part of the presentation is put together well; audience can follow separate parts clearly; conclusion shows some critical awareness of issues.	Unstructured. Parts of presentation need better ordering, may overlap; audience needs more help to grasp issues being presented; conclusion addresses issues but without critical awareness.	Unstructured and incomplete. Parts of the presentation are missing, e.g. proper introduction, conclusion or part of main body of presentation.
Understanding/Use of Sources How you show your grasp of key issues and concepts, including how you use sources and how you handle questions	Sophisticated use of concepts/technical terms. Accurate use of terms and concepts. Shows awareness of the implications of issues raised. Shows some independent judgement. Appropriate use of sources.	Shows general understanding. Concepts/technical terms are used, but not always appropriately. Relevant material gleaned from sources.	Working in the right area, but the candidate has not identified the key issues and/or has handled material inaccurately. Use of sources needs development.	Misses the point of the assignment. Group Work (where relevant) How you handled the issues that arise in group work, and/or your individual contribution to the group work. If you found a way to retrieve a difficult situation you may have learned more than in the group worked together easily.	The group seems to have found a productive cycle of joint strategy sessions and individual study feeding into each other and/or you seem to have shown strong commitment to the group work, and/or is evidence that you learned something important from the process.	The group seems to have found a way to synthesise the independent work done by individuals and/or you seem to have contributed appropriately, and/or there is evidence that you gave some thought to the problems you encountered.	The group seems to have delegated tasks with reasonable success but without working cooperatively and/or you seem to have contributed adequately and/or you seem to have tried to find a solution if things went wrong. The group seems not to have worked together at all, and/or you seem to have worked in parallel to the group rather than attending group sessions and contributing.

Mitigating Circumstances

What is Mitigation?

Occasionally, circumstances or events that are beyond your control may negatively affect your ability to perform in an assessment to your full potential or to complete an assignment by the set deadline. In such cases it might be agreed to treat marks or results in a way that takes into account the negative impact that may have resulted from those circumstances, or events, or by waiving (i.e. not applying) penalties that arise from late submission.

Mitigation will not result in the changing of any marks unless penalties for late submission are waived after an assignment has already been marked. In some exceptional cases it is possible that marks may be ignored, and the assessment be excused because it was negatively affected. Mitigation might also result in a review of your overall performance as borderline even though the marks you obtained would not normally be high enough, thereby considering you for a more favourable result such as a higher degree class.

Nature of mitigating circumstance:

- a) It is important to remember that in order to qualify for consideration the adverse circumstances, or events, must be unforeseeable or unpreventable and sufficiently disruptive to have a considerably negative effect on your academic performance or your ability to complete assignments by the assignment submission deadline.
- b) Circumstances or events that merit consideration might include:
 - Severe illness or injury
 - The death or critical illness of a close family member
 - Family crises or major financial problems leading to acute stress
- c) Circumstances or events that would not normally merit consideration include:
 - Holidays and events which were planned or could reasonably have been expected
 - Assessments which are scheduled closely together
 - Misreading the timetable or misunderstanding the requirements for assessments
 - Inadequate planning and time management
 - Failure, loss, or theft of a computer or printer that prevents submission of work on time: students should back up work regularly and not leave completion so late that they cannot find another computer or printer. Students have access to the Office365 software suite which provides autosave to the cloud.

- Consequences of any kind of employment
- Exam stress or panic attacks not diagnosed as illness

How it could help you

The outcome of the mitigation request is dependent on your particular circumstances. If your request is approved by the Mitigating Circumstances Committee then the Examination Board will decide how to apply it, given your assessment results. Some of the options available to the Examination Board include:

- Permission to resit a test, or examination;
- Permission to resubmit a piece of coursework;
- Arrangement for an alternative mode of assessment.

Claiming mitigation

If you miss an assignment submission deadline or you believe that the quality of your assignment has been negatively affected and you feel that your circumstances are sufficient to deserve consideration by the Institute's Mitigating Circumstances Committee, you must ensure that you submit your Mitigating Circumstances application within two days of the submission deadline (please note that we appreciate that obtaining third party evidence to support your application may sometimes take a little time but please submit a completed Mitigating Circumstances form in the first instance and supporting evidence as soon as possible afterwards). If you have any queries about your application – either before applying, or whilst applying, please contact the Registrar (j.mills-foy@sothebysinstitute.com) for assistance.

You can download a copy of the Mitigating Circumstances form from Canvas.

Please give your application to Joanna Mills-Foy, Registrar, within two (2) days of the official submission deadline, together with independent third-party supporting documentation. Your supporting documentation must be sufficiently independent to confirm the validity of the case you are making (e.g. a signed letter/medical certificate from a doctor, documents from external agencies, etc.). Please ensure that information of a confidential nature is included in a sealed envelope.

Even if you are unable to submit your assignment on time, you are strongly advised to hand it in as close to the submission deadline as possible. Please note that if more than one Mitigating Circumstances form is submitted (i.e. more than one assignment is adversely affected), or if negative circumstances result in the late submission of your assignment for a prolonged period, then in very exceptional circumstances, a revised submission deadline might be set by the Committee.

Your application will need to include appropriate evidence that fully supports the statement that you have made on your application. Please note that the Mitigating Circumstances Committee will be unable to consider applications that do not include appropriate evidence. When considering applications, the Committee may request applicants to provide additional documentation if the evidence already provided is not sufficient.

Students are expected to comply with the Committee's requests, otherwise there may be a danger of their applications being rejected.

If circumstances are such that you are unable to continue your studies for a period of more than two weeks, then an Interruption of Studies might be required (please see below).

The Mitigating Circumstances Committee will carefully consider your application and will need to agree if your circumstances were unforeseeable and unpreventable resulting in them having a negative effect on your academic performance. The Committee will then report its decision to the Examination Board which will confirm, in the case of mitigating circumstances applications that have been approved, that late submission penalties will not be imposed.

Reasonable Adjustments

Sotheby's Institute of Art - London (SIAL) celebrates a diverse community of students and is committed to creating a supportive and non-discriminatory environment for all who study at the Institute. The Institute's Student Support Policy applies to all students who may have an existing disability or who develop a disability while studying at the Institute.

Disabilities are considered by government legislation such as the Disability Discrimination Act 2010 that entitles students to suitable support and specific reasonable adjustments in respect of their participation in a programme of study and as service users of the Institute. Such adjustments would take the form of an agreed Individual Learning Plan (ILP) to be observed by both the student and the Institute, and it may include, but is not limited to, the adaptation of the way in which oral presentations are delivered, recording teaching sessions, access to specialist computer hardware and software packages to support learning, the use of a real-time interpreter, short extensions for assignment submission deadlines, or being offered additional working time in examinations.

Documentary evidence of a student's disability will be required in order for reasonable adjustments to be considered.

The full Student Support Policy can be found on Canvas.

Please note that in advance of adjustments being agreed, sufficient, up-to-date, independent supporting documentation will need to be provided by the student. If sufficient information is not provided, then we may not be able to provide support.

External Examiners and Examination Boards

The standards of all degree programmes in Great Britain are overseen by External Examiners, all of whom are academics of high standing and specialists in the various disciplines taught. The University of Manchester oversees the appointment of External Examiners for Sotheby's Institute of Art – London programmes. The Examiners' role is to ensure that sound assessment practices are in place.

The External Examiners' written annual reports are scrutinised (and acted upon, as necessary) by both the University of Manchester and Sotheby's Institute of Art - London, thus ensuring the maintenance of high standards. Please note that programme-specific External Examiner reports are available on Canvas.

It is the responsibility of the Examination Board to review all the results anonymously and make decisions on the award of credit, and it will consider eligibility for compensation and referral. It is also the role or responsibility of the Examination Board to decide on the progression of students and whether they are required to leave the Institute with an exit award. Normally, all staff involved in the assessment of the programme units will be present at Examination Boards. The External Examiner will confirm marks and will be consulted when decisions on awards and classifications are made.

Please note that marks are not finalised until they have been ratified by the Examination Boards. If an Examination Board has documented evidence that, (a) a student's work, attendance or engagement has been unsatisfactory, and (b) the student has been formally warned of the unsatisfactory work, attendance or engagement but has not shown significant improvement acceptable to the Board, then the Board has the right to refuse assessment. See the Institute's Student Attendance Policy below.

Late Submission of Assignments

Electronic submission of assignments is usually via Canvas.

You must ensure that every piece of submitted written work has an accompanying authenticity statement. Any work that has been submitted after a deadline has passed is classed as late except in cases where mitigating circumstances apply. There should be no discretionary periods or periods of grace. A student who submits work at one second past a deadline, or later, will therefore be subject to a penalty for late submission.

This guidance relates to first attempts only. No calculations are made for part-days. The mark for any work submitted at any time within the first 24 hours following the published submission deadline will reduce by 10% of the maximum amount available per 24 hours. The work would continue to attract further penalties for each 24 hours the work is late, until the assignment is submitted or no marks remain. Penalties are applied to calendar days and include both weekends and weekdays.

All submission dates and times are in UK local times and it is the responsibility of students to ensure that they check the relevant time zone (if work is submitted from outside of the UK).

Students who submit work late and whose original mark was a pass, but whose mark falls below a pass as a result of a late penalty, will not be asked to resubmit but their mark will be treated as a referral. For marks which were originally in the compensation zone before the deduction of a late penalty, normal compensation procedures apply to the treatment of the mark after the late penalty is applied.

Work submitted more than 10 calendar days (240 hours) late will be deemed as a non-submission and automatically given a mark of zero. Work submitted within 10 calendar days (240 hours) will be marked and feedback provided. Students who submit referral assignments after the deadline will be automatically subject to a mark of zero.

Plagiarism and Academic Malpractice

Please read the following section carefully. You must ensure that you understand the following section. If you have any queries or do not understand any part of the information, please ask your Programme Manager or a member of the Academic Quality team.

Definition

Academic malpractice is any activity – intentional or otherwise – that is likely to undermine the integrity essential to scholarship and research. It includes plagiarism, collusion, fabrication or falsification of data or results, and anything else that could result in unearned or undeserved credit for those committing it.

Academic malpractice can result from a deliberate act of cheating or may be committed unintentionally. Whether intended or not, all incidents of academic malpractice will be treated under the Institute's Academic Integrity and Malpractice Policy and Procedure. Students who have engaged in academic malpractice will be penalised.

Below is a non-exhaustive list of various types of academic malpractice:

Plagiarism is the presentation, intentionally or unwittingly, of the ideas, work or words of other people without proper, clear and unambiguous acknowledgement. It includes the copying of the work of any other person, including another student, and the submission, in whole or in part, of a student's own work - self-plagiarism - where, for example, such work may have been previously submitted for a different assessment.

Collusion is when a student or students collaborate with another student or students, as an individual or group to gain a mark or grade to which they are not entitled. Students who allow another student to copy their work are also committing collusion and both the copier and the provider of the work are liable to be penalised.

Contract (or commission) cheating is a serious form of academic malpractice whereby a student arranges to have all, or part, original work improved by, commissioned, purchased or obtained from a third party (e.g. family members, essay mills or other students).

Fabrication or falsification of data or results by individual students or groups of students is the presentation or inclusion in a piece of work of figures or data which have been made up or altered and which have no basis in verifiable sources.

Unauthorised use of Artificial Intelligence is presenting work for an assessment generated by artificial intelligence software as student's own work. Unless otherwise stated in an assignment brief, students are only allowed to use generative artificial intelligence tools to generate potential themes, structures, and bibliographical sources which could inform the eventual writing of the assignment. Students are not allowed to use AI to generate text for direct use in assignments or to translate significant amounts of text from a different language into English and submit it as their own work. Students are also not allowed use AI to edit and rewrite their own text, because this means that they are submitting text which is not entirely their own.

Please also see the Institute's Guidance on Using Generative AI (Artificial Intelligence) tools in your academic work and assignments, available on Canvas.

The Institute is committed to encouraging and educating students in good academic practice and ensuring that all students understand the academic requirements expected of them. To this end, dedicated support will be available and students will be made aware of academic integrity and academic malpractice through in-person lectures and/or workshops at the start of their studies. Dedicated study skills support will also be available through the Library to those students who may require additional help.

Please note that it is the responsibility of the student to clearly indicate any lack of understanding concerning academic malpractice, and engage with the resources made available on this subject as required. Ignorance of the Institute's procedures or guidelines on referencing will not of itself constitute a defence to an accusation of having committed academic malpractice.

Please note the following very important points:

- i. All assessed work, either written or oral, must be the student's own work, except in the case of group projects where a joint effort is expected and is indicated as such. Students must complete authenticity statements for any substantial pieces of written work.
- ii. As mentioned above, unacknowledged direct copying from the work of another person, or the close paraphrasing of somebody else's work, is called plagiarism and is a serious offence, equated with cheating in examinations. This applies to copying both from other students' work and from published sources such as books, reports or journal articles. Plagiarised material may originate from any source. It is as serious to use material from the internet or from a computer-based encyclopaedia or literature archive as it is to use material from a printed source if it is not properly acknowledged.
- iii. Use of quotations or data from the work of others is entirely acceptable, and is often very valuable, provided that the source of the quotation or data is given. Failure to provide a source or put quotation marks around material that is taken from elsewhere gives the appearance that the comments are ostensibly one's own and can be construed as plagiarism. When quoting word-for-word from the work of another person, quotation marks or indenting (setting the quotation in from the margin in the case of quotations longer than three lines) must be used and the source of the quoted material must be acknowledged.
- iv. Paraphrasing, when the original statement is still identifiable and has no acknowledgement, is also plagiarism. Taking a piece of text from whatever source and substituting words or phrases with other words or phrases is plagiarism. Any paraphrasing of another person's work must have an acknowledgement to the source. It is not acceptable to put together unacknowledged passages from the same or from different sources linking these together with a few words or sentences of your own and changing a few words from the original text: this is regarded as over-dependence on other sources. This is academic misconduct and a form of plagiarism.
- v. Direct quotations from an earlier piece of the student's own work, if unattributed, suggests that the work is original, when in fact it is not. The direct copying of one's own writings qualifies as plagiarism if the fact that the work has been or is to be presented elsewhere is not acknowledged.
- vi. Sources for quotations, and for other authors' ideas and information, should be professionally referenced using footnotes, and should be listed in full in a bibliography at the end of the piece of work.

Penalties

Plagiarism or unauthorised use of AI is a serious offence and will always result in the imposition of a penalty. In deciding upon the penalty, the Institute will take into account factors such as the extent of the proportion of work that has been plagiarised or created using AI and the apparent intent of the student. The penalties that can be imposed range from a minimum of a zero mark for the work (with or without allowing re-submission) through the downgrading of degree class, to disciplinary measures such as suspension or expulsion. A viva voce may be held where it is suspected that academic malpractice has been committed but where no textual evidence can be produced, e.g. in cases where it is suspected that the student has commissioned the work from a third party, or has engaged in unauthorised use of AI that breaches the Institute's rules.

The full Viva Voce Procedure and policy on Using Generative AI (Artificial Intelligence) tools in your academic work and assignments can be found on Canvas and our website here.

Process

Students are required to submit their assignments electronically and the Institute uses plagiarism software called 'Turnitin' in order to monitor possible student plagiarism, which includes using generative AI software without proper acknowledgement. Students agree that by taking a course at the Institute all required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to Turnitin for the detection of plagiarism. All submitted papers will be included as source documents in the Turnitin reference database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of such papers. Use of the Turnitin service is subject to the Usage Policy posted on the Turnitin site.

Cases of alleged academic malpractice may be referred to an Academic Integrity Review Panel for consideration, where students will be given the opportunity to state their case prior to any decision being made. The Panel may then impose a range of penalties.

For more in-depth information about the Institute's approach to academic integrity, the processes around identified academic malpractice, and the potential consequences for breaching the Institute's rules of academic integrity, please see the Academic Integrity and Malpractice Policy and Procedure, available on Canvas.

Process for Complaints

The Institute strives to deal with all students in a fair, efficient and courteous manner; however, there will be rare occasions where a student feels that her/his expectations have not been met. In these circumstances the student is entitled to give feedback or to make a complaint about the programme/course or service in question.

There are a number of informal channels by which it is hoped that most problems can be resolved. If, however, you need to pursue a complaint formally, the complaint will be considered seriously and impartially, on the basis that is set out in Institute's 'Complaints Procedure' document. In the first instance it is advised that you speak to your Programme Manager or Academic Lead. Information about the Complaints Procedure can be clarified by a member of the Academic Quality Team.

ATTENDANCE

All students, regardless of their visa/immigration status, are expected to attend all taught sessions in person as specified in their timetables and to engage with any online activities available as instructed. Students should engage with materials on Canvas and undertake all preparation and written assignments required of them by the dates specified. Failure to attend classes or engage with online learning is a serious matter and advance notification of a planned absence must be given to the Programme Coordinator/Manager.

Your attendance is recorded by touching your student ID card on the card readers found in every classroom. You will be issued a Sotheby's Institute of Art ID card at the start of the Semester. You must "touch in" your card for both morning and afternoon sessions. This automatically registers you to the session. Programme Teams are emailed attendance reports daily. You will be instructed in this procedure during your orientation day at the start of the Program. If you forget your ID card or are waiting for a replacement card, please sign the paper register in the front office before each session. We will not make retrospective amendments to the attendance record.

There will be occasionally circumstances where ill health or other legitimate reasons prevent students attending sessions or engaging online. Students are responsible for informing the Programme Coordinator of these circumstances. If a student is absent or not engaged for more than 5 working days, some form of documentary evidence, such as a doctor's note, should be given to the Programme Team to support the absence. In the event a student's attendance is persistently poor, without a satisfactory reason, they may receive a written warning and continued failure to commit to their study programme could involve disciplinary action, could have visa implications and may also be reflected in any references that are provided.

If you are absent from class for five days or more, you may need to complete a Self-Certification Form or obtain a letter from your doctor. If you do not inform the Institute of any illness or difficulty before work has to be submitted, the Examining Board will not take such evidence into account afterwards. Medical or other special pleas will not be accepted after examination results are published. Please refer to the section 'Mitigating Circumstances' for further guidance on this.

The Institute's policy is that lateness is not tolerated. Punctuality is essential; joining late disrupts lecturers and fellow students. Consistent lateness may result in you being marked as 'absent'. You should also carefully plan journeys in advance in order to avoid arriving late at scheduled visits.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Personal details

If any of your details change after you submit the registration form, please ensure that your Programme Coordinator/Manager is kept informed!

Communication with students: Notice boards, Canvas and e-mail

Useful information will be displayed on the relevant notice boards around the Institute and on Canvas.

Please let us know if your personal email address changes during your time with the Institute.

The administrative staff cannot accept telephone messages for students. We will, of course, try to reach a student if we are told of an emergency concerning them. The Institute's telephone number is (020) 7462 3232.

Contact with third parties

Please note that the Institute can only deal with issues directly via contact with the relevant student. The Institute cannot liaise with student family members, or student friends, apart from when there is an emergency.

Facilities

Lecture Rooms

When classes take place in the building, no food or drink, apart from water, may be taken into the lecture rooms at any time. Any rubbish collected during lectures must be disposed of before you leave. Do not leave litter in any rooms! Snacks may be eaten in the common areas only (if open), where provision is made for the disposal of cans and cups containing liquid.

When a lecture has finished, please ensure that you leave your classroom promptly to allow staff enough time to set-up for subsequent classes.

The recording of lectures by students is strictly prohibited, unless you have reasonable adjustments, as the Institute retains copyright of taught material.

Mobile phones are to be switched off during all teaching sessions, including tutorials and committee meetings, whether at Sotheby's Institute or on visits; this also applies to the library.

Booking Classrooms

If you require a space for group work, you may enquire about the availability of classrooms with Reception. Available classrooms may be booked for up to two hours and can only be booked one day in advance of the time required. Please note, if one of our programmes/courses requires the classroom at short notice, their booking will take priority and yours will be cancelled.

Lockers

Lockers may be available for you to hire when teaching is taking place in the building. You can request a locker by emailing lockers@sothebysinstitute.com. You will be sent a 4-digit code and locker number. You must ensure that you clear the contents of the locker at the end of your programme.

Sotheby's Institute is not responsible for students' possessions and compensation will not be made for the loss of items on any of our premises.

Smoking

Sotheby's Institute operates a no smoking or vaping policy. Please note that this includes the front steps of Number 30 and 31, immediately in front of the building. It is the Institute policy not to tolerate smoking.

Student ID Cards

Each student will be issued with an ID card when teaching begins in the building. The card will provide access to the building, attendance recording, use of the photocopier and can also be used in the library to borrow books. You should submit your ID photograph using Canvas with YOUR NAME as the file name.

Please note that if your card needs replacing, there will be a £10 fee to pay unless you can provide a crime reference number in the event of theft.

Accommodation

When possible, SIAL may secure accommodation for their study abroad program to assist students in securing housing for the duration of their program. This is an optional service provided alongside the academic program, although is not required.

Students can select SIA housing at the point of application. If a student opts out of SIA arranged accommodation, they are responsible for securing their own accommodation for the duration of their program. The Institute neither assists students in arranging independent accommodation nor is responsible for providing students accommodation if they are unable to secure independent accommodation.

Medical Care

General Health Care

In the UK there is a service called the National Health Service (NHS) that provides healthcare for all UK citizens based on their need for healthcare rather than their ability to pay for it. As a Study Abroad Student you are entitled to a limited range of NHS treatments, such as emergency or routine care, but not dental services or complex treatment. You can attend A&E (Accident & Emergency) departments for emergency care and also Sexual Health clinics for free treatment. However, if you are referred to specialist services or admitted to hospital as an in-patient, you may be charged a fee and this can be expensive.

If your course is less than six months, you are strongly advised to take out private medical insurance, as you will be liable for NHS charges for the treatment you receive in the UK except for in a medical emergency and this is limited.

Some countries have a reciprocal agreement with the UK which may entitle you to some free healthcare on the NHS but you should seek advice from the health authorities in your home country about exactly what treatment will be covered.

If you take regular medication please bring a sufficient stock to give yourself time to access a prescription when in London. All medications sent overseas via postal mail are subject to UK taxes.

Sotheby's Institute has made links with 2 GP Practices. One is a 10min walk from us, called the Holborn Medical Centre <http://www.holbornmedicalcentre.com/>

The other is the Gower Street Practice, also located quite near to the Institute: <https://www.gowerstreetpractice.org.uk/register-online/>

Both are happy to see Sotheby's Institute of Art students, who can register on a temporary basis - you will need to register with them before you can see a GP (General Practitioner).

If you prefer to see a GP near to where you live, you can search for a practice that is local to you by inputting your post code at <http://www.nhs.uk/Service-Search>

Please note: it is vital that staff are made aware of any medical condition a student has which might require special treatment while they are following a course.

Sotheby's Institute staff cannot, under the Health and Safety Act, issue any form of medication but we can offer first aid. If first aid is needed, please go directly to the reception.

Staff must also know the name of the next of kin or another person that each student would wish us to contact in the event of an emergency. In addition, if you are temporarily studying remotely, we request the name and contact details of someone nearby who could be called upon to help in an emergency. It is your responsibility to inform us of these contacts, provide information and updates if anything changes – this information will be held confidentially.

Any accident occurring on the premises must be reported to a member of the administrative staff. Sotheby's Institute of Art – London is legally required to record and report any such incident, no matter how minor.

Student Support for Mental Health and Wellbeing

While your studies will be your main priority, you may feel that you need some extra support with issues in your personal life or health and wellbeing. To that end Sotheby's Institute offers a professional Counselling Service in-house for emotional and psychological support during your studies – this is free of charge, private and confidential.

Your mental health is as important as your physical health and asking for help is not wasting anyone's time, we would always prefer to hear from you. To register, we will ask you to complete a Counselling Request Form and attend an initial consultation to discuss your needs and how we can help. Following on from this we may offer information, self- help resources, ongoing counselling sessions or help you to access alternative services more appropriate to your needs.

We can also offer a one-off Wellbeing Check-in/Review different from counselling, for a brief chat about anything that's on your mind or getting in the way of your studies. This could be a quick query for information, advice and guidance or to explore whether counselling is right for you at this time.

Appointments are available in-person at Bedford Square or online via MS Teams, depending on availability.

Safety and Security

One of the most important aspects to our safety and security is the awareness of students to the controls that exist in the building. This is to protect you and your belongings as much as the staff and the Institutes' property. It is important that the organisation knows who is in the building and equally important that you know how the systems work.

One entrance

Entry and exit must always be through the 30 Bedford Square door, although there are fire exits at the rear of the building, at basement level at the front and the door at 31 Bedford Square. Do not use the 31 doors as an exit normally but do familiarise yourself with the locations of all the fire exits, because in a serious incident where there is a full building evacuation, the fire exits may be used.

Card Entry

The main entrance door to Sotheby's Institute of Art is protected by an electronic card system that requires you to present your personalised student ID card to a reader panel at the right-hand side of the entrance door. This will open the street door between 9am to 7pm Monday to Friday. You will be issued with your own student card and must always carry this card with you because it unlocks the street door and can electronically record attendance in each classroom when you tap it against the classroom reader. Remember to tap the student card against the street door reader, every time that you enter or leave, even if you are in a group. If the door has been opened by someone else, each of you should tap the reader so that we know you are in the building in case of an emergency. Tapping the door entry and exit does not qualify for class attendance. You must also tap into the wall pad in your classroom before you attend all lectures. If you lose your student card, inform reception or Facilities immediately - a charge of £10 will be made for a replacement. Students who forget their ID cards will be asked to sign in using one of the QR codes at the reception.

Visitor Management System

As students pass the reception desk, they must show their Identity Card to the receptionist. Any visitors or guests must be signed into reception and issued with a guest pass that they must wear.

Safety and Security

You have a responsibility to keep the building secure and not compromise this by carelessness or negligent behaviour. If you are concerned about people in the building, talk to reception or Facilities.

You will keep the building safe by:

- Never allow access to people that are not known to you, however plausible they may sound.
- Never accept deliveries unless you are the named person.
- Ensure that no-one tailgates, i.e. slips in behind individuals and groups.
- Never hold the front door open.
- Ensure the front door is closed behind you when you enter and leave the building.
- If you open a window, ensure that you close it when you leave the room.
- If you are concerned about anyone in the building notify reception or Facilities immediately.

Fire Prevention

Good housekeeping is essential to everyone's safety so remember:

- No smoking or vaping in any area of our buildings
- Passageways and exits must be kept clear of rubbish and any obstructions.
- Open flames or candles are forbidden.
- Never use fire extinguishers to hold back doors.

Important

- The alarm system is rung, as a test, at 6:30pm every Friday. Do not evacuate.
- At all other times, the alarm must be treated as an evacuation.

Accidents or Incidents

Should there be any incident, contact Reception or Facilities, who will then find a suitable staff member and call First Aider and/or ambulance. There are lists of first aiders posted around the building. A report is undertaken after the incident to ensure that the situation is not repeated.

Emergency Procedures

All students are made familiar with the following procedures on their first day. It is essential that everyone responds and acts appropriately when they find a potential fire or hear the alarm.

- On detecting smoke or a fire, break an alarm call point, which will raise the audible alarm.

- Inform reception or Facilities or the closest member of staff. They will call the Fire Brigade.
 - Leave the building and go to the assembly point, follow the evacuation procedures below.

Evacuation Procedures

- Remain calm.
- Alarm call points are situated in the library, cafeteria, corridors, classrooms, offices and on staircase landings. Familiarise yourself with their locations.
- Fire evacuation practise drills do take place, and there may not be a warning. Unless there is a sign in the foyer telling you that there is a Fire Bells Practise at a certain time on that day, if the fire bell sounds you must follow the evacuation procedures to leave until you are told it is safe to re-occupy the building.
- Fire Fighting Equipment is situated around the building for trained staff use only, do not use.
- Follow all instructions given to you by a Fire Warden, who wear an identifying yellow jacket.
- Leave the building by the nearest exit - you should know the primary and alternative escape routes. If you do not, ask a member of staff now.
- Check that no-one is in difficulty around you. Do not waste time by collecting belongings.
- If possible, quickly close open doors and windows - it will prevent the spread of the fire - but do not put yourself at risk.
- On reaching the street go immediately to the Fire Assembly Point which is in front of 42 Bedford Square (turn right out of the building and cross the road at the corner of the Square)
- Do not re-enter the building until authorised by staff or emergency services.

Bomb Alerts

- Packages, envelopes, bags, etc., must not be touched but reported immediately to reception or Facilities or a member of staff.
- If the decision is made to evacuate the building, the procedure for emergency evacuation in the event of a fire should be followed (as above).

Emergencies Occurring Outside the Building

Follow the advice of the staff or Police and not evacuate the building unless told to do so. If required to evacuate, the fire bell will be the signal to evacuate the building.

Building Exits

- Primary: The principal staircases lead to the exits of the front doors of 30 & 31 out onto Bedford Square.
- Secondary: Rear exit from the 30 ground floor to Morwell Street behind the building, turn left and walk

- Secondary: Rear exit from 30 basement upstairs to Morwell Street behind the building, turn left and walk around the block.
- Secondary: Front exit from 30 basement through Student Study Room and up exterior stairs onto Bedford Square.

The Prevent Duty on Higher Education Institutions

As part of UK anti-terrorism law, Sotheby's Institute of Art – London, like all higher education institutions in the UK, has to comply with the government's legal requirement that institutions 'prevent people from being drawn into terrorism and ensure they are given appropriate advice and support'. This is known as the Prevent Duty and is about safeguarding students against outside influences, which may seek to encourage them into terrorism (of any sort) whilst also safeguarding the right of students (and staff) to discuss political issues within the law.

If you want to know more about the Prevent Duty and how it works, you can find more information on the Office for Students' website. (<https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/student-wellbeing-and-protection/counter-terrorism-the-prevent-duty/>)

Although it is considered highly unlikely that a SIAL student would be drawn into terrorism or extremism, it is always possible that a student who may already be vulnerable for other reasons could, for example, be groomed towards extremist views by someone exploiting that vulnerability. If so, it is likely that any such activity would represent a significant change in that student's behaviour, attitudes and conversation, and may first be noticed by other students. It is also possible that a student might be concerned that a sibling or family member may be in this position and seek advice on what they can do.

We see ourselves very much as a community at SIAL, so if you have any concerns about the wellbeing of anyone, particularly with regard to someone who might be being radicalised, please speak to your Programme Manager, who will have received training in what to do in this circumstance. Alternatively, contact Duncan Murray (d.murray@sia.edu), who is responsible for implementing the Prevent Duty at the Institute.

One other aspect of the Prevent Duty to be aware of is that it requires us to block and monitor access from the Institute's IT network to websites promoting hate speech, terrorism and extremism. Whilst we think it is highly unlikely that any of our students would try to do this, it is possible that a student may be researching a contemporary artist who makes work exploring these themes. In that scenario, it is also possible the web filters may (wrongly) interpret the student as trying to access prohibited material. If you have any concerns that a subject you are researching might, for this or any other reason, be misinterpreted as trying to access prohibited material, please speak to your personal tutor or contact Duncan Murray.

Harassment

Sotheby's Institute of Art is committed to creating a work and study environment which is free of harassment, and which protects the dignity of staff and students, irrespective of their sexual orientation, racial or ethnic background, religion or disabled status. Harassment is offensive and prejudicial to a productive working and studying environment. It is indicative of a lack of respect for the person harassed, undermines their position and may have a negative impact on health, job performance, course work, examinations and their sense of personal security.

The Institute regards sexual, racial or personal harassment as an extremely serious matter. Formal complaints will be thoroughly investigated in such a way as to protect those who complain and those who are the subject of complaint. In cases where the complaint is substantiated the individual responsible may be subject to action under the appropriate disciplinary procedure.

Any students who have been subjected to harassment should inform their faculty, Program Team, the Registrar or the Student Support Manager, who will be able to offer help and support.

Non-academic student misconduct

Students are reminded that they are in a professional environment and need to always act accordingly. Students will be treated courteously by staff with the expectation that this courtesy is reciprocated and extended to both staff and other students.

Any member of the academic staff may require any student to withdraw from any particular teaching session because of inappropriate behaviour on the part of the student. Any such incident will be brought to the notice in writing of the Programme Manager from the programme on which the student is studying. Students who continue to exhibit unacceptable behaviour may face disciplinary action in respect to their conduct. Please see the Institute's Student Code of Conduct and the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy – London (both available on Canvas and our website) for further information.

INFORMATION SERVICES

Library Services

The library is at the heart of the infrastructure of learning at Sotheby's Institute of Art London. We support teaching and learning by offering a range of facilities, collections and services as follows.

Facilities

The library is located over three floors which includes a social space on the ground floor, scanning and photocopying, and study spaces on the other two floors.

We want to make the library a safe and pleasant environment to work in. Please respect your fellow students by not eating in the library and keeping drinks to the ground floor only. Please switch your mobile phone to silent and also keep noise to a minimum.

During term time the library is open from 9.30am to 7pm Monday to Friday. Opening hours may vary during vacations.

Detailed research is further supported by a number of research and specialist libraries in London. SIA library is within walking distance of the British Library, one of the three largest libraries in the world. The National Art Library, the British Film Institute, and Tate Library and Archive are amongst other national libraries accessible to our students, as well as many smaller, more specialised collections. We provide advice about these and help you to access them.

Collections: physical and digital

Students can borrow up to four books from the Institute library's physical collection of over 15,000 titles onsite that covers numerous topics in art and luxury. Most books are initially lent for one week and you can renew these loans up to three times providing there are no reservations on them. We can place a reservation for you on items that are on loan. Students with approved Individual Learning Plans can borrow slightly more books for longer. Journals, sales catalogues, and some specialist books are not for loan and must be consulted in the library although many of these are also available online.

Sotheby's Institute of Art - London MA dissertations from 1992 are available for consultation in the library.

The library website is the gateway to our digital collections and our extensive advice about learning and research. We hold an extensive digital text collection of ebooks and millions of scholarly journal articles via databases including but not limited to JSTOR, ProQuest and EBSCO. We also give students access to specialist databases such as Artprice and Artnet.

Services

Our professional librarians have a wealth of experience to support you throughout your studies by offering bespoke scheduled sessions such as library inductions and research classes. The library is also open for drop-in questions on research and referencing.

IT Services

IT Suite

The IT suite is located in the basement of building No. 30 and provides access to the following computing facilities: six Windows networked computers; Microsoft Office suite and access to two multifunction Xerox copiers for scanning/photocopying/printing.

Printing

Printing is managed by PaperCut and the cost per A4 sheet is 5p for black and white and 10p for colour. You can top up your PaperCut printing account online. Costs are subject to change and other printing costs can be found in the student IT Suite.

Wireless Access

The SIA-Student Wi-Fi network access points are located throughout the building.

Canvas LMS

SIA's Canvas learning management system (LMS) provides a virtual classroom environment to support teaching and learning at the Institute. The LMS provides access to course material, such as syllabi, readings, and assignments, as well as campus and program information. Communication between faculty/staff and students may take place within Canvas in many forms, including pages, announcements, messages, and discussion posts. Students are expected to log in and check for updates on a regular basis. Support is available from IT who can be reached at ITSupport@sothebysinstitute.com

Access: Students will be given access to the Canvas LMS at <https://sso.sothebysinstitute.com> during their first week at the Institute. Students should keep their own copy of content they contribute to Canvas, such as assignment submissions, discussion posts, file uploads etc. to "My Files," and contributions to ePortfolios. Courses change in Canvas to a read-only state after the last day of the class, after which students can no longer contribute to assignments, discussions, quizzes, or other interactive areas. Courses that have switched to read-only can be found at: <https://online.sothebysinstitute.com/courses> under “Past Enrolments.” Students maintain read-only access until the time of their graduation or if they leave the Institute for any reason, after which they lose all access to the LMS. Students withdrawn or dismissed from a course will immediately be removed from the course in Canvas. Students should contact ITSupport@sothebysinstitute.com with any questions about system access.

Terms of Use: By logging into Canvas, students agree to the Terms of Use for the Sotheby’s Institute of Art – Online Learning Management System, and may be removed from the system if they fail to comply with those terms.

Communication Methods: The Canvas “Inbox” is a method of messaging other users in Canvas and is different than Institute email. By default, various activities in Canvas generate an email notification to students’ Institute email address. Students can update their notification settings. It is important that students continue to regularly check their Institute email address in addition to Canvas since time-sensitive, and ALL official materials will come via Institute email.

Student Profile: At the time of account creation, a profile with basic information about the student is created; this includes first name, last name, display name, and course enrolments. Students can update their profiles via their Canvas settings, where they can add a profile picture, bio, web links, or other information.

Note: To ensure that your assignments are submitted on time, please ensure that your Time Zone is set to London.

Preparing to give presentations in class using PowerPoint

We recommend that you save your work on a USB stick in preparation for delivering a presentation; you will not be able to use your own computer to present, as this can cause delays when setting up our computer system in the lecture room. The format of your document can either be in PowerPoint or PDF. If your document requires to be presented using other formats, please liaise with our IT department in advance of the day of your presentation.

IT hardware Student Support

Please be aware that the Institute does not offer laptop repair and troubleshooting or laptop rental, and that all hardware and software faults are the responsibility of the student, although staff are happy to offer advice when possible. We do not supply laptop or mobile phone chargers.

APPENDIX - Health and Wellbeing

Whilst we anticipate that you will remain fit and healthy during your studies, it is important to take some time to familiarise yourself with the options open to you should you require extra support or medical care. It's often best to seek support before things escalate.

Information and advice for your mental health and wellbeing

Counselling and Wellbeing Support

The Sotheby's Institute London provides a Counselling service to support students' emotional and psychological needs. Any student can request an appointment for initial consultation with our in-house Counsellor to discuss their needs and how we can help, in complete confidence and without any further commitment. If we agree that counselling might be helpful, we can offer ongoing time-limited therapy usually up to a maximum of six sessions with review.

The service also offers general wellbeing support including information, advice, guidance and one-to-one Wellbeing Check-ins for any personal issues that may be on your mind or getting in the way of your studies.

If you state issues related to your mental health or wellbeing on an application for Mitigating Circumstances or during other academic processes, you may be referred to the service for a Wellbeing Review to assess your needs.

Your mental health is as important as your physical health and asking for help is not wasting anyone's time, we would always prefer to hear from you. For further information please contact the Counselling Service at counselling@sia.edu
